Travel Census

The Randwick Hospitals Campus has conducted a Travel Census; the largest travel survey of the site to date. The Travel Census will establish existing travel behaviours of the campus and inform future planning around access and travel choice for the campus.

Thank you to everyone who participated and supported the survey.

Public Domain Reference Group Workshops

Public Domain Reference Group members met over four consecutive weeks in June to provide feedback about the five key public facing areas of the new Prince of Wales Acute Services Building: art and culture, landscape design, wayfinding, interior design and retail spaces. The Group's diverse representation across key stakeholder groups, included the Aboriginal community, culturally and linguistically diverse representatives, consumers, academics, researchers and staff, which meant a broad range of voices were heard.

Each of the first three workshops focused on one or two of the public domain areas and included presentations from the projects design experts to give members both an overview of strategy as well as the opportunity to ask questions. Each presentation was followed by a workshop exercise for that public domain area, designed to generate discussion and elicit ideas and feedback.

The Randwick Campus Redevelopment team and design consultants are thrilled with the level of engagement and commitment from members, not to mention the quality of their feedback and insights. Feedback from the group has been positive, with many participants describing the workshops as genuine and positive opportunities for effective collaboration and engagement, appreciating the opportunity to find out more and provide their input.

The fourth and last workshop wrapped up the valuable work achieved by the group and outlined how their feedback will be carried forward in the final design stages of planning for the new Acute Services Building. Although much work is still to be done to analyse the feedback, it is clear that our design needs to be welcoming and inclusive, supports healing, creates flexible spaces, considers the locality and environment and are seen by members as key priorities for the new hospital.

The team extends their gratitude and appreciation to all involved in the workshops for helping us deliver a community focused hospital that will meet the needs of patients and their families, carers, staff and the community now and into the future.

Construction update

Piling and excavation has commenced to lay the retention system for the basement of the Acute Services Building. Pete the Piling Rig will drill and fill 8 to 10 piles per day. Other large equipment will be joining Pete on site, to support this important work. Including cranes, compaction rollers, excavators, jack hammers, rock saws, bob cats, trucks and trailers.

Furniture, fixtures and equipment transfer audit

The project team recently completed the Furniture, Fixtures and Equipment (FFE) transfer audit to catalogue assets and equipment, and their suitability for transfer all departments relocating to the ASB.

The transfer audit is a fundamental piece of work that is required for FFE preparation and planning. It provides the basis from which we can better understand FFE procurement requirements and alignment with budget.

Thank you to all staff who supported the audit over the last few months.

Superintendents Cottage Update

External work is nearing completion with the veranda restoration underway. Scaffolding is expected to be removed early July.

Internal works have continued. Interior designers are being engaged for concept designs and soft furnishings for the Cancer Survivorship Centre and the You Can Centre.

Clinicians visit other sites

In response to feedback from prototype scenario testing, Karen Tuqiri, Director of Nursing, led a multidisciplinary team on site visits to other NSW hospitals to observe live clinical environments.

“We visited sites within the district and across the state, to witness the bedroom layout in a live clinical setting. This gave the team an opportunity to observe current practices and have discussions with staff who are currently practising in the new facilities” said Karen.

Updates will be shared when available.

Thank you for having us!

During May and June the Randwick Campus Redevelopment team visited wards and departments to provide construction updates at the Royal Hospital for Women and Sydney Children's Hospital, Randwick. These sessions informed staff about the next phase of piling and bulk excavation activities on site.
